

Postal palace

Opening day

Along line of patrons greeted the first day of business at Pleasanton's new post office on Black Avenue and Santa Rita Road yesterday. Meanwhile the sign at right was posted on the old post office downtown to remind folks about the new location. The 31,500 square feet of California style architecture and its site cost $1.4 million and has a parking lot big enough to accommodate 31 customer vehicles and 135 postal and employee vehicles. There won't be any dedication ceremony, but there will be a public open house at the facility, probably within the next month or so, according to Postmaster Mark Foster. Meanwhile, the tattered "8:30 to 5:00" sign at the old postal building constructed in 1963 fades in the sunlight as conjectures develop about what it will house next. A poverty-fighting job developer wants to install a skills center in the building, but first he must get federal funding and local zoning approval for the project.

Binding arbitration snags Amador talks

Binding arbitration of grievances has become the major stumbling block between Amador Valley Joint High School District teachers and district administration, as the "boycott" of extracurricular unpaid services moves into its second day.

Jim Eaton, president of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association, has estimated that some 90 per cent of all teachers will honor the boycott.

Eaton has said the action is designed to bring about action by the board in stalled negotiations over the present contract.

Teachers are requesting that grievances be solved by binding arbitration, which the board has rejected.

Teachers previously declared an impasse in negotiations and one mediation session has already been held with a state-appointed mediator, Mike West.

A second session is slated Friday. Should mediation fail, the administration and the teacher negotiating teams would have to submit to fact-finding.

The Amador Valley Joint High School District board has also reacted to recent statements made by Eaton and teacher unit representatives.

In a statement released Friday, board president Wally Decker and superintendent Bruce Newlin charged "information currently being distributed by the AVSEA contains a number of incorrect statements and erroneous information. We would like to take this opportunity to set the record straight."

Then, in a two-page statement, Decker and Newlin question the actions of the teachers unit.

"First, all current board policies are in force until such time as a contract is signed which specifically alters those policies."

"Secondly, the teachers indicate a lack of a meaningful response to the teacher position, interestingly, the board's compromises were accepted by the teacher representatives on a Friday, and somehow over the weekend, the teachers changed their minds. We wonder why. We wonder what type of pressures were brought to bear to make them change their minds. Then, without warning and with no further negotiations and contrary to specific directions, the teachers called an illegal minimum day. All teachers currently have personal service contracts that incorporate board policy into those contracts. Therefore, their action to adhere to a schedule other than that officially adopted by the board of trustees has to be a violation of board policy and, therefore, of that individual contract."

Teachers previously declared a minimum day but the action which was declared starting yesterday is a boycott of extracurricular unpaid activities—such as faculty or teacher-parent meetings, open houses and other school programs.

The administration, in reaction to the earlier minimum day action, had said teachers participating could be subject to disciplinary action.

The statement signed by Decker and Newlin continues by stating, "binding arbitration" of grievances is, indeed, a major concern. However, everyone should be aware that any two-way contract is enforceable in a court of law and does NOT take binding arbitration to make this contract enforceable. The board is elected by the community to represent them and to make decisions that reflect the will of the taxpayers. Any erosion of that decision-making necessarily erodes the community's control of the schools.

Braeseke set to face murder trial

Barry Braeseke, the 20-year-old Dublin youth accused of shooting to death his father, mother and grandfather in their Belton Drive home Aug. 24, will be tried in superior court Nov. 1 on charges of murder.

Livermore Municipal Court Judge John A. Lewis made that determination late yesterday after a three and one-half hour preliminary hearing to decide if enough evidence existed to transfer the case to superior court for trial.

Braeseke is accused of shooting to death his parents, Floyd and Barbara Braeseke, and his grandfather, John Braeseke, in the family room of their 11418 Belton Drive home. Young Braeseke has pleaded not guilty to charges that, if convicted on all counts, would send him to the gas chamber under California's mandatory death penalty laws.

After Allan McNie of the county coroner's office described in detail the placement of gunshot wounds on the victims' bodies, and Norman Gomes of the sheriff's department told of the bodies' positions in the room, Det. Sgt. Bernal Cervi took the stand to tell of Braeseke's arrest and subsequent alleged confession.

After initially denying any part in the murders and demanding a lawyer, Cervi said Braeseke asked to talk "off the record." During that time, he apparently changed his mind and decided to admit that he and David Barker, 16, of San Ramon, conspired to kill the threesome for the inheritance, Cervi testified.

Braeseke's statement, which Cervi read aloud, said that the suspect had been smoking crystal, an animal tranquilizer consumed to reach a high, for six months. Under its influence, Braeseke said he agreed to Barker's plan to kill the family.

Council gets earful in smoke alarm fight

PLEASANTON — Should the city avoid any possibility of radioactivity in buying smoke detectors for Komandorski Village?

That was the question raised last week by Vice-mayor Joyce LeClare, spurred by a Ralph Nader report that over a long term the radiation from the devices can be a radiation exposure hazard.

LeClare called on the council to get more information about the both the "radioactive" type and any which might not emit radiation.

The council now has some information, provided by local resident DeWitt Ault, who sells fire prevention products, including smoke detectors.

Ault provided the council with a Consumer Reports article (October, 1976) about two types of detectors, the ionization models which have a radioactive element and the photoelectric detectors which do not.

The ionized models are better at detecting smoke from a flaming fire while the photoelectric models are more sensitive to smoke from a smoldering fire, such as an upholstery fire.

Consumer Reports recommends that homeowners install both kinds, so that both kinds of fires will be detected quickly. In addition, none of the photoelectric models run on batteries, so if house current fails, they won't work.

However, if the homeowner wants to install only one kind, a certain brand of ionization detector is recommended because in tests it performed well in both categories.

As far as radiation hazard is concerned, two manufacturers have issued statements in rebuttal to Nader's criticisms and Ault forwarded them to the council.

One of the manufacturers quoted the Nuclear Regulatory Commission as saying: "If you were sitting 25 centimeters (10 inches) away from a device for 40 hours a week, you would get one millirem of radiation in one year. If you take a round trip airplane flight from Washington to California, you get five millirems per flight."

Why would a promising young trial attorney from Danville seek public service in the troubled BART board?

"Because I believe that board is a mess ... because every last one of those directors should be removed ... because the representative from this district is an appalling individual who uses his church and his membership in the John Birch Society to advance his personal ambitions."

John R. McCardle uses the word "appalling" a great deal as he discusses the state of Bay Area Rapid Transit and when he describes Robert Allen, the incumbent representative for the fifth BART district, which stretches from Danville to Livermore to Hayward.

It is difficult to tell, in a hour of lively conversation with McCardle, whether his determination to "improve that transit system" is more important than his promise to "remove that awful man from office" in McCardle's own candidacy.

He has strong sentiments on both counts.

"It's like a zoo," McCardle says of the BART board of directors and their deliberations. He attended one of those meetings and was "appalled" at the bickering which he compared to "Nazis fighting Communists." It is because of that bitter infighting that the BART board spends too little time "solving the problems of public transit," the challenger says.

McCardle, 33 and a three-year resident of Danville, readily admits that his own

McCardle says board's a mess, Allen appalling

"interest in politics" is part of the motivation to seek that BART post. He has worked in and for the campaigns of "several prominent Democrats," including those of Senator Tunney and Alameda County supervisorial candidate Bill Vandenburg.

But he disclaims any attachment or respect for "either faction" in that badly divided BART board. McCardle, steadfastly insists that "I have no personal or professional allegiance" to the transit district, its engineers, its suppliers or its own legal counsel. The Hayward-based law firm of which McCardle is part is "much too small" to be operating in the larger corporate world of BART, the Danville attorney insists.

If he finds the present transit system and its control faulted on many counts, McCardle nonetheless believes in public transportation, and even in BART's own future. "It's the only answer," he says of all mass transit ventures.

He also believes that fixed rail transit should someday be extended to the far reaches of Danville and Livermore, and he rejects the argument that such a service would aggravate this Valley's "growth problems."

"You can't put your head in the sand, and that's what the anti-growth people are doing," McCardle says. He wants "planned growth" and "planned transit" to lead the way for that change, "not following far behind as transit always has."

Murder suspect arraigned

A 66-year-old Dublin man was arraigned in Livermore Municipal Court yesterday on charges of shooting to death his 49-year-old wife in their Amador Valley Boulevard apartment Thursday night.

Jack Raymond Horner, a retired dental equipment salesman, is accused of shooting Barbara May Horner with a .38-caliber revolver. Her body was found in the hallway of the couple's apartment at 7581 Amador Valley Blvd. with a single bullet wound to her head. Horner was found in a semi-conscious state in the bedroom.

The suspect appeared in Judge John A. Lewis' court yesterday and was placed on $100,000 bail. Wearing Santa Rita Jail white coveralls and shaking, Horner listened as Judge Lewis ordered him to appear tomorrow in municipal court at 1:30 p.m. to set a plea and obtain counsel.

A zoning break for residents of study area

PLEASANTON — Things were not as bad as they sounded last week to concerned property owners who thought the planning commission would freeze their lands in a study district for months or perhaps a year or two.

A big delegation of property owners waited long into the night at the commission meeting and finally heard Planning Director Robert Harris recommend that the properties come out of a study district and have no rezonings at this time.

The commission followed Harris' recommendation on four of the six study areas and postponed two others.

A state law requires that zoning for properties conform to their general plan designation. On the face of it, properties in the study districts did not conform, but closer inspection revealed that there is enough latitude in the pertinent zoning districts to include the general plan designation in them, according to Harris.

For example, the park designation for 67 acres next to Sports and Recreation Park does not preclude the agricultural zoning currently on the property.

Practically speaking the planning commission can keep the current zonings on the lands because no developments are in the offing anyway. A more appropriate time to consider the conformity between zoning and general plan would be when a property owner comes in with a proposal to develop, Deputy City At-ney Harvey Levine told The Times.

Study areas on which the commission acted included 18 acres at Foothill Road and Beranal Avenue, planned for low density residential and zoned for the city's standard subdivision density; 10 acres on Rose Avenue near Pleasanton Avenue, zoned for high density multiples, but planned for medium density; 14 acres at the southwest corner of Vineyard Avenue and Pico Avenues, zoned for single family homes, but planned for a park; and 67 acres near Sports and Recreation Park, zoned for agriculture and designated as a park.

Two areas should be rezoned, according to Harris. One is the 53 acre Mission Hill area, which the planning department long has advocated should be changed from standard subdivision zoning to a medium density planned unit development. Making it a PUD would insure preservation of the hillside by permitting development only on the plateau areas, said Harris. The commission will look at the recommendation Dec. 8.

The other lands recommended for rezoning are on the Pleasanton Ridge. Current zoning on 120 acres there is for 40,000 square foot lots. The staff would like to see the property put into the Hillside Planning District to assure control over the aesthetic and topographic impacts of development on the ridge. Commissioners have scheduled a look at that one November 10.

Public Health Nurse, Dale Berry, R.N., asked they received their swine flu inoculations Monday Lena and Floyd Anderson a few questions before at Kottinger Place.

Fifth planning hopeful

LIVERMORE — Guram S. Sidhu, 45, of 1533 Vancouver Way, is the fifth person to apply for an opening on the planning commission.

The Lawrence Laboratory physicist, native of Punjab, India, and Livermore resident since March, 1966, noted in his application a desire to "help develop a better environment for increased commercial activity, for which there is an urgent need and great potential in Livermore."

Indicating a "concern for the quality of life," Sidhu said energy considerations should be incorporated into city planning.

He noted his personal interests and technical background would fit that need well.

He urged development of a favorite concept — an extended plaza or an integrated downtown commercial area where people would free themselves of autos and walk, interact with and greet others as they go shopping or for other activities.

"This would promote feelings of belonging and pride in the community," he said, "as well as cut down out-of-town shopping trips."

Sidhu is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Also under consideration for the planning post, vacated by former commission chairman Robert Selden, are: Warren Thompson, William E. Zaggotta, Michael E. Soffa and Richard Buckley.

The city council is expected to make its selection when it meets next Monday.

Cocaine arrest sticks

LIVERMORE — An employee of the U.S. Customs office in Los Angeles was bound over to superior court after a preliminary hearing in municipal court here Friday on charges of possessing cocaine.

Karen Annette Wellington, 19, 736 W. 79th St., Los Angeles, was arrested June 28 when the car in which she was a passenger was stopped following a brief chase on I-580 near Pleasanton.

Police reportedly found a bag of marijuana on the floor of the car. Another plastic bag, allegedly containing the white powdery cocaine, was reportedly found in the suspect's purse. In other court action, a warrant was issued for Buddy Jonathan Shaw, 26, a Hayward carpenter, who allegedly escaped from Santa Rita prison Oct. 14.

Deputies making a routine check could not find the prisoner after a roll call, paging on the public address system and searching. No indication of method of escape was given.

Valley obituaries

Mary Lou Day

Private services will be held tonight at Graham and Hitch Mortuary in Pleasanton for Mary Lou Day who died last week at a local hospital.

Mrs. Day, 58, was a member of the Dublin Women's Club and a co-founder of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce.

She is survived by her husband, Donald of Dublin, a son, Jim Day, daughters Suzanne Day of San Ramon, Terry Day of San Bruno and Mary Day of San Jose, and two sisters, Helen Sina and Florence Delaratti. Graveside rites will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at West Point Cemetery. Memorials to the American Heart Fund are preferred.

Nan W. Heron

Nan W. Heron, 71, a native of Los Angeles and eight-year Livermore resident, died Monday in a local hospital.

Her husband was the late Donald Heron. She is survived by daughters Mrs. Nancy Cecil of Livermore, and Mrs. Colleen Burt of Ohio; son David; daughter-in-law Mrs. Helen Heron of Livermore, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m., Wednesday, in the chapel of the Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore.

Challenger

McCardle rejects, however, the half-cent boost in the sales tax as a method of sustaining Bay Area Rapid Transit.

"San Diego and Los Angeles are going to get mass transit systems and you can bet they are never going to pay for those systems through the sales tax," McCardle believes. "The state's general fund" will be the source of any future transit project in California, "and that's the way Bay Area Transit should be financed too."

It was McCardle's "sign board a war" with Bob Allen that brought the Danville challenger into recent prominence with the incumbent BART director from Livermore. But Mc-

Cardle writes off Allen's attack on that score just as he does the alleged "cage rattling" which first brought Allen to public attention.

"The only 'cage rattling' Allen ever did was on the expense account thing, that plus getting his John Birch philosophy into the board deliberations," says the Danville attorney. But all of this "has contributed very little to the system or to this district," and McCardle believes Bob Allen should therefore be removed from office.

When the voters have their say, on Nov. 2, McCardle has every confidence "there will be a new look on that board," and an outspoken young attorney from Danville will be part of that new image.

The swine line

PLEASANTON — Free swine flu inoculations are being given to people 60 years and older under the sponsorship of the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency.

The agency sent their senior citizen mobile health van to Kottinger Place Monday and gave shots from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Public Health Nurse, Dale Berry, R.N. and other agency officials said that by noon approximately 100 people had received flu vaccine. They were estimating another 100 to 150 would show up before closing time.

Another inoculation session will be held at Kottinger Place Oct. 25, 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Officials in attendance said people receiving shots showed little concern over deaths reported in alleged conjunction with swine flu inoculations.

Lilly of the Valley

If you have never had the opportunity to attend a Band Review or Half-time Competition or haven't any idea what it is all about, you now have a chance to observe. I guarantee it will make you feel young again, more than any of those products that claim they will restore your youthful feeling.

The Foothill High School Band Booster Club will be holding its second annual "American" Band Review in Pleasanton on Saturday, Oct. 30. The sounds of music from 37 outstanding bands and marching feet of high school youth throughout California will be an experience to behold.

The "half-time performance" as it is called, will consist of bands performing on the football field at Amador High School beginning at 6:30 p.m. These music makers under the leadership of their band directors, put forth a show that leaves one awe stricken! While putting their best foot forward marching and forming a pattern designating something special, the youngsters are under the watchful eyes of judges. It's a multitude of requirements that have to be met by the youth in order to gain points to place.

The uniforms have to be spotless, even to the point of one speck of hair loose on the shoulder of a band jacket can cost points. Shoes, gloves, spats, whatever is part of the uniform has to be in top notch condition.

That's one phase of the judging which is accomplished before the band even gets on to the field. From there they are judged on the perfection of marching, timing, ability of music and overall performance.

The bands are placed in different "classes" according to the size of the school. Each class sees a first, second and third place winner. The band receiving the most points for overall half-time performance, regardless of class goes home with the Sweepstake trophy, the highest award attainable during a performance.

Foothill has won that "Sweepstake" once so far in its history of three years of marching. That was at Portland, Oregon last year.

This year, to date, the band has marched during parades and half-time competition for three Saturdays and come home with five first place trophies and two second. Also, Dan Bowe, drum major won his first, first place trophy during presentation at Cupertino and a second this weekend in Santa Cruz.

Besides all this competing and winning, the kids really have fun. Each school generally has its own rooting section which begins cheering well before half-time competition begins. You can generally tell which schools are the biggest rivals by the yelling contest that goes on.

My first opportunity to watch such a sight was in Concord of this year. It renewed my faith in the youth and made one feel that the world isn't too bad after all. Things will all work out. There are a lot of good kids having good clean fun. Even those who are in the cheering section of the stands and are not part of the band, show you what school spirit is all about. They are as fascinating and interesting to watch as the band. Their talents lie in another direction but it is all put together for their favorite alma mater.

Kids, particularly at the high school age, are full of emotion and are not afraid to let it all hang out. They may have their moments of resentment toward one another, but when the time comes, they put it all together and support their worst enemy.

Take the performance at Cupertino. Here three local bands from the same school district, Amador, Dublin and Foothill, were part of the day's competition. Of course each band wanted to bring home the first place trophy for its school, yet when it came time for their fellow Pleasanton band to perform, they were more than in support of one another. It was a touching sight to see.

Foothill came home with three first place trophies that weekend, one for marching, one for half-time performance and of course, Dan Bowe for mace. By the way, Dan alone is a performance worth going to see if band music is not your thing. He certainly can put forth a show that certainly earned him his top placement.

When Foothill knew they were out of the running for the Sweepstake trophy during that evening, they were all pulling very strongly for Amador High School to be the winner. When Amador didn't make it, those band members were just as disappointed for that school as they were for their own. It was a neat display of loyalty between schools and I'd venture to say, for their "hometown band!"

So, put on your stomping shoes for keeping time to your favorite music and root for your favorite band.

Valley bands marching in the parade include Amador, Dublin, Livermore and Granada.

Amador, Livermore and Granada plus Foothill the host band, will also be taking part in the field competition.

See ya at the band review!

Slow cooking simplicity

Slow cooking beef stews and soups are becoming a way of life in many households. A budget cut of beef such as chuck or brisket and a selection of vegetables are the basics for many hearty nutritious one-pot meals. For cooks who are away all day, the new slow cooking electric pots are handy. The same results of superb flavor and tender beef with little or no attention are achieved with slow simmering over the burner. The tantalizing beef aroma wafting through the kitchen is a bonus, too.

Whooo will capture me?

The Owl, traditional symbol of wisdom for some and eerie keeper of the night for others, has been captured in a strikingly beautiful needlepoint "painting" by Lucia Benedetti of Dublin.

Lucia, a retired lieutenant commander of the U.S. Navy Nurse Corps, took up needlepoint just three years ago, and is already on her fourth heirloom-quality masterpiece. She has donated her "Owl of the Night" to St. Raymond's Guild to help raise funds for its leading project this year.

The guild will help purchase a figure of the risen Christ for the new St. Raymond's Church building soon to be constructed.

The owl is done in brilliant tones of blue and orange, set in an attractive 25 by 30-inch wood frame. The needlepoint picture was four months in the making for Lucia who worked mostly in evening hours. She says the absolute concentration required made TV viewing virtually impossible.

The needlepoint helps to keep her mind off the constant pain she experiences as a result of a back injury incurred while trying to lift a 200-pound orderly during a hospital fire drill. While recuperating from the first of her back injuries, Lucia was introduced to needlepoint by a nurse.

Because she first learned to handle the tapestries in her hands, while bedridden, she does not work with a frame. Instead, she starts at the bottom of the piece and works back and forth, rolling the finished work as she progresses.

Lucia hopes a third spinal operation will relieve her of the pain, which forced her retirement from a colorful Navy career begun at Pearl Harbor. It took her nine days to cross the ocean 35 years ago, and only five hours when she returned to Pearl Harbor for a nostalgic reunion last year.

Her slim, erect body maintains its military posture. Her soft, brown eyes still most over as she remembers the boys she saw pass through the 7,000-bed hospital during six years of active duty at Honolulu. Tarawa and Iwo Jima are familiar names to Lucia Benedetti.

Never having married, she now lives quietly in Dublin with her sister, Palma, and her brother, also single.

'Owl of the Night' by Lucia Benedetti of Dublin is raising funds for a sculpture of the Risen Christ for the new St. Raymond's Church to be constructed.

Local builders lose

PLEASANTON — Councilman William Herlihy tried to take advantage of a technicality and award a bid to a local contractor last week but he was the only council member who felt that way.

The council awarded the work on the Foothill Road sewage project to Mountain Construction which had a bid of $52,525, but had erred in the bid procedure by removing blank bidding forms from bound contract documents.

Robar Constructors of Pleasanton bid $54,800 and Herlihy wanted the apparent low bid thrown out because of the technical error. Other councilmembers felt that it was not worth the extra $2,000 to give the award to a local firm, especially since the low bidder's error was a minor, technical one.

On another item, the council approved allocation of 10 sewer permits for commercial and industrial purposes from next year's allotment of 140 connections. All 140 this year were used up in the first six months.

The council also authorized the staff to allocate permits to businesses which are taking over other property's sewer connections. If the new business will increase the old location's sewer input by more than five connections, the staff will have to go to the council for authorization. This is designed to keep a close eye on the capacity structures placed on the city by the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

A call to ease campaign law

PLEASANTON — Councilman Ken Mercer has a miniscule improvement he would like to see installed on campaign literature.

Proposition 9, the clean campaign legislation passed by voters in 1974, has required political campaigners to print quite a bit of verbiage on bumper stickers, campaign signs and even on tiny label campaign buttons.

The printer's name and address, the candidate's name and address or his or her committee's name and address have to be on the campaign materials. The rule was designed to show who is responsible for printed materials, in case the question of libelous writing arises.

The intention was good, but all that verbiage on a bumper sticker or button means more money for a candidate's printing costs, said Mercer. And the rule probably doesn't do any good because people with libel in their hearts can just make up a name to put on the materials, said Mercer.

He would like to see the verbiage requirement shortened so that the committee or candidate's name is on the materials with his or her campaign number. That's a number assigned each candidate by the Fair Political Practices Committee in Sacramento. Since it's a registered number, it would be easy to trace.

Mercer will pass his suggestion on to City Attorney Ken Scheidig who will forward them with any other council opinions to Assemblyman Kaiser, who is conducting hearings on possible amendments to the Fair Campaign Practices Act.

City wins safety honor

PLEASANTON — This city won a third place safety award in the annual California Cities Employee Safety Contest, according to San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, president of the League of California Cities.

Pleasanton earned its award by having the third lowest incident rate of injuries resulting in lost workdays among cities who have between 216 and 315 employees. A total of 182 cities competed in the contest sponsored by the League and the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

Pleasanton sign limits hold firm

PLEASANTON — The "big boys" aren't going to have any more signs on their stores in the Valley Plaza shopping center than the other shops the city's design review board decided Wednesday night.

Sears will be the anchor tenant in a new, separate shopping center adjacent to Valley Plaza and its 80 foot frontage seemed to permit it enough sign area for two signs, according to Ted Myers, part owner of the new center.

However, Commissioner Bill Jamieson said that Sears should have only one sign on the property, just like every other store in the proposed development. Commissioner Dave Shepherd agreed and the pair teamed up on the design review board to outvote Chairperson Bob Butler, who felt that the Sears store's bulk allowed it two signs, as a permitted in the city's sign ordinance.

On another item, commissioners reviewed and approved two new conditions on the Pleasanton Body Shop, which successfully applied for egress from its parking lot to Vervais Avenue a few months ago.

The conditions stipulate all work must be done inside the body shop and their must be proper noise deadeners and as much work with quiet tools, rather than noisy tools, as possible.

Vote on the added conditions was 3-1 with Jamieson voting "no" as he did on the original approval of the exit driveway.

Vervais Avenue resident Dan Pons complained to the commission that deliveries to the muffler shop in the same building are blocking the street. Butler promised that infractions reported to the city would be investigated.

Suspension for SR carpenters

SAN RAMON — The Department of Consumer Affairs for California has announced disciplinary action against King Carpet Company, 570 Alcosta Mall, resulting in "indefinite suspension" of that firm's license.

The action was taken by the Contractor's State License Board on charges ranging from disregard of plans and specifications to failing to complete the work as specified.

The State Board's action is also directed at Hinds Enterprises, Inc., and King Carpet Company "because a different license previously issued was revoked." Both actions were effective Sept. 10, 1976.

Report due on traffic plan for Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — The city's traffic advisory committee will meet at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the City Hall conference room, 200 Bernal Ave.

There will be a progress report on the work of the citizen's committee which is helping to draft a comprehensive traffic plan for the city.

Mercer wanted direction

PLEASANTON — Morrison Homes' application for a rezoning on 22 acres at Creek's Bend is out in limbo somewhere while Councilman Ken Mercer feels bad about killing the application inadvertently and wonders why City Attorney Ken Scheidig didn't speak up with some advice about the whole matter.

Morrison has the property north and east of Hopyard Road in a Planned Unit Development (PUD) and followed the suggestion of the planning staff to change it to R-1-6500, the city's standard subdivision zoning ordinance.

The planning commission gave its approval and residents along the portion of the Del Valle Parkway already installed told the commissioners their concern about rerouting the parkway's future course, notably the part which will touch Morrison's proposed development. Residents, builder and Councilman William Herlihy met to work out things.

The application came to the city council a couple of weeks ago. Mercer made a motion to deny the application, but he added that the committee should keep meeting because the whole matter needs further discussion.

Later it was discovered that Morrison can't come back to the council with the same application for a year. That's not what Mercer intended when he made his motion to reject the application, he said last Monday night.

"I made the motion to deny the plan, assuming we could rehear it after the committee meetings," Mercer told The Times last week. "Because I didn't use the phrase 'without prejudice', we can't rehear it for one year."

Mercer continued, "Because of my naivete in not saying 'without prejudice', much time has been wasted. I felt bad about it and I think that Scheidig should have pointed out that I should have said it. None of us are attorneys and it is his obligation to advise us. I think Scheidig must have felt the same intent (on the council's part)."

Scheidig had no comment on the incident for The Times, but city hall sources pointed out the sequence of events on the night in question, events which seem to speak up for Scheidig.

Herlihy made a motion that evening to continue the whole matter, but it died for lack of a second. After some discussion, Mercer made his motion to deny the application, and it passed. In that context, it looked like the council wanted to keep the PUD zoning on the land and who could blame Scheidig — no mind reader — for not coming forward and advising them about the magic phrase "without prejudice", said the city hall source.

A Letter to the Parents & Taxpayers of the Pleasanton Joint Elementary School District

Dear Friends:

It is with profound regret that we, the teachers of the Pleasanton Joint Elementary School District, report to you that significant progress has not been made in the negotiating process.

On October 11, we presented to the District a five day compromise package in which we offered to drop our Agency Shop proposal for this year, despite the fact that it could result in a financial burden for the members of the Amador Valley Teachers Association. In return we hoped that the District would accept our compromise proposal on binding arbitration, in which the power of the arbitrator was significantly restricted. Furthermore, we stated a willingness to further compromise should the District respond with significant compromises.

That same day we were notified that the District accepted all our compromises, while making small compromises themselves on other items. They refused to compromise on binding arbitration, to which they remain adamantly opposed.

As a result, the teachers at a General meeting on October 12 and their Representative Council on October 14 UNANIMOUSLY voted to reject the District's offer. Although reluctantly, the teachers have overwhelmingly decided to take the following measure:

TEACHERS WILL REPORT TO SCHOOL ONE HALF HOUR BEFORE CLASSES BEGIN AND WILL LEAVE SCHOOL

ONE HALF HOUR AFTER CLASSES ARE DISMISSED BEGINNING ON WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20. NO SCHOOL OR DISTRICT MEETINGS OR EXTRACURRICULAR DUTIES WILL BE PERFORMED AT THE SCHOOLS OUTSIDE THESE HOURS UNTIL A FAIR CONTRACT IS NEGOTIATED.

We have no contract to bind us. State law mandates only that teachers report one half hour before school begins. We chose to remain one half hour after school so that we would be available to students needing help and parents who wish to conference. Furthermore, we wish to assure all parents that the education of their children will not be restricted. Teachers will plan their lessons and correct their papers at home.

Respectfully yours,

AVTA

New room from bond money?

(This is the third and final article on the push for improved facilities at Donlon School in Pleasanton, the largest enrollment school in the Murray School District.)

"Donlon Parent - Faculty Club requests the (Murray School District) Board of Trustees fully explore the construction of a multi-purpose facility at our school with 1972 bond monies still available."

That is almost the sum and substance of a letter sent March 31 to the Murray school board by Ginni Lunger, president of the Donlon Parent - Faculty Club.

On April 8, Murray assistant superintendent Heinz Gewing sent a letter of reply to Mrs. Lunger and the Parent - Faculty Club stating, "I appreciate your thoughts on the need for a multi-purpose facility for Donlon School. As you know, the Citizens Advisory Committee is now being formed and will make recommendations to the Board of Trustees."

"At this time I am also exploring the feasibility of your request. I am sure that in the future the Board will act on this matter."

Mrs. Lunger has continued her campaign for board and/or district committee consideration of improvements to Donlon but believes she has received less than total consideration from the district.

On May 4, Superintendent Donald Williams responded in writing, saying "With regard to the building of a multi-purpose room at Donlon School, you recall, in answer to your question, Dr. (Ted) Woy stated that this would be an appropriate suggestion to be taken up by the newly-appointed citizens' committee, whose charge is to determine housing needs for seventh and eighth grade youngsters."

"I am sure that the committee will consider thoroughly and carefully your request for a multi-purpose room."

The letter is signed by Dr. Williams.

The Citizens Advisory Committee, in its report to the board submitted two weeks ago, states only that it did not consider the Donlon situation.

For several months Mrs. Lunger has sought figures related to the remaining 1972 bond monies. She claims the district has been less than cooperative and open in supplying her any such figures—which she believes are crucial in determining what the district would have available to put toward any Donlon improvement project.

It appears the finances involving the Dolan school site in the Silvergate area of Dublin are of paramount importance to any consideration of improvements to Donlon or any other school in the district.

Mrs. Lunger and other district observers believe that even if seventh and eighth grade students are re-districted to another school, such as Dublin or Wells, the Val Vista section school will still need a full fledged multi-purpose facility capable of providing cafeteria services, school-wide meetings and assemblies.

Taking the 263 seventh and eighth grade students out of Donlon would still leave the school with a present enrollment of 1,000—almost 250 more than the second largest enrollment school, Wells.

Enrollment projections show that Donlon will continue to grow, ever so slightly, while other district schools decline in enrollment.

The highest grade enrollments now at Donlon are at the kindergarten (153), first (159) and third (152) grade levels.

Thus, Donlon's "problem" may be with the students, parents and faculty for many years to come.

Seniors need truck

The Amador Valley high School senior class is in dire need of supplies to build a senior float. But there'll be no float if they can't obtain a flatbed truck. Going over organizational plans for the Oct. 29 Homecoming Parade in Pleasanton and putting out the call for a flatbed truck are senior committee members Mark Lauer, class president, Rob Cook, Ann Pyper, Kerri Kremers and Paula Vargas. Anyone having a truck or flatbed that the class could borrow and return by the morning of Oct. 30 should call Kerri at 846-2525 or Amador Valley High, 846-2818. The class needs the flatbed by Oct. 23. The annual parade will be through downtown Pleasanton on the afternoon of the 29th.

Boogeyin' for the choir

The music department at Dublin High School will present a talent show Thursday, Oct. 28 to help raise funds to buy uniforms for the school's Ensemble Choir. One of the acts scheduled to perform is this dance trio of, from left, Gail Milton, Tara Smith and Teresa Blea doing "Boogie Fever." Show will take place at school little theatre starting at 7:30 p.m. on the 28th. In addition to student acts, there'll also be skits by the faculty. Admission is 50 cents or 75 cents with chance on five gift certificates to be awarded.

Nine days of flexibility at Cal

SAN RAMON—Flexible scheduling is underway in the Desert Pod at California High School.

The purpose for this particular use of time is to offer the senior high students an opportunity to combine the use of arts and crafts with their academic curriculum. The schedule will continue for nine days.

During the first nine weeks the ninth and tenth grade students have been studying Africa. Students will opt to learn tie dying or mask-making as cultural expressions of African life. In grades 11 and 12 the students have been studying political parties and debate. Their study will culminate with a debate and a mock election.

The entire student body at California High School will participate in a presidential election to be held Oct. 28. The making of campaign posters and buttons will extend the political spirit.

The flexible scheduling unit will end with an African Cultural Day on Oct.

29. Students will hear speakers of African background, present art work, view an exhibit of African artifacts and enjoy some African delicacies. Results of the presidential election will be announced on Friday also.

Save that fire truck!

LIVERMORE — The ghostly sound of rattling chains rolled through the streets.

Livermore firemen towed the rusting hulk of a 1920 vintage chain-driven fire truck from a lonely spot in an open field to a new home where it would get a facelift.

For months the Seagraves Pumper — in its day capable of pouring 750 gallons per minute on scorching flames — rested next to a fence at the sewage treatment plant.

For a decade the elements battled against this stodgy bit of Livermore's heritage as it sat in a corporation yard.

Local firemen and the Livermore Heritage Guild thought the aging vehicle needed a more respectful resting spot.

When Heritage Guild's Janet Newton spotted the truck, she put her hands to her cheek, cocked her head to the side and commented, "It looks like it needs a home."

Firefighting veterans who showed up to help move the truck recalled how it had been an official part of the department's list of equipment from 1920 to 1960.

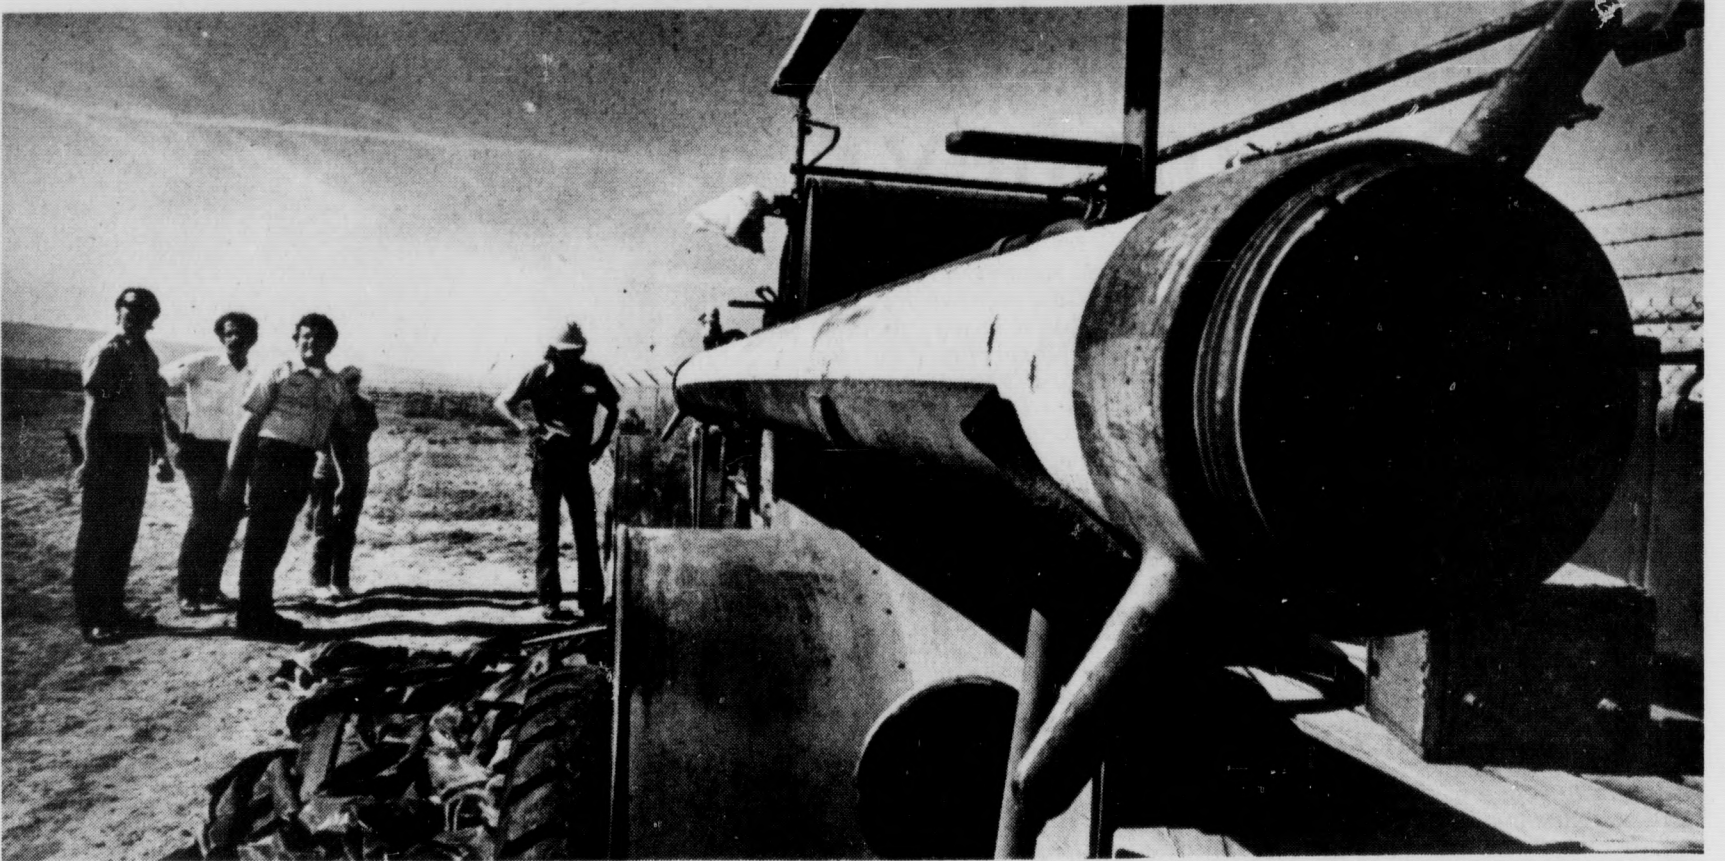

The last time it actually saw service was in the late 1940's when the pumper was hooked to a hydrant at First and McCleod streets to fight the famous Palm Ballroom fire.

Flaky paint chips and rust will soon make way for a new paint job. At least one member of the Fire Fighters Association thinks the engine is mechanically sound and can be fully restored.

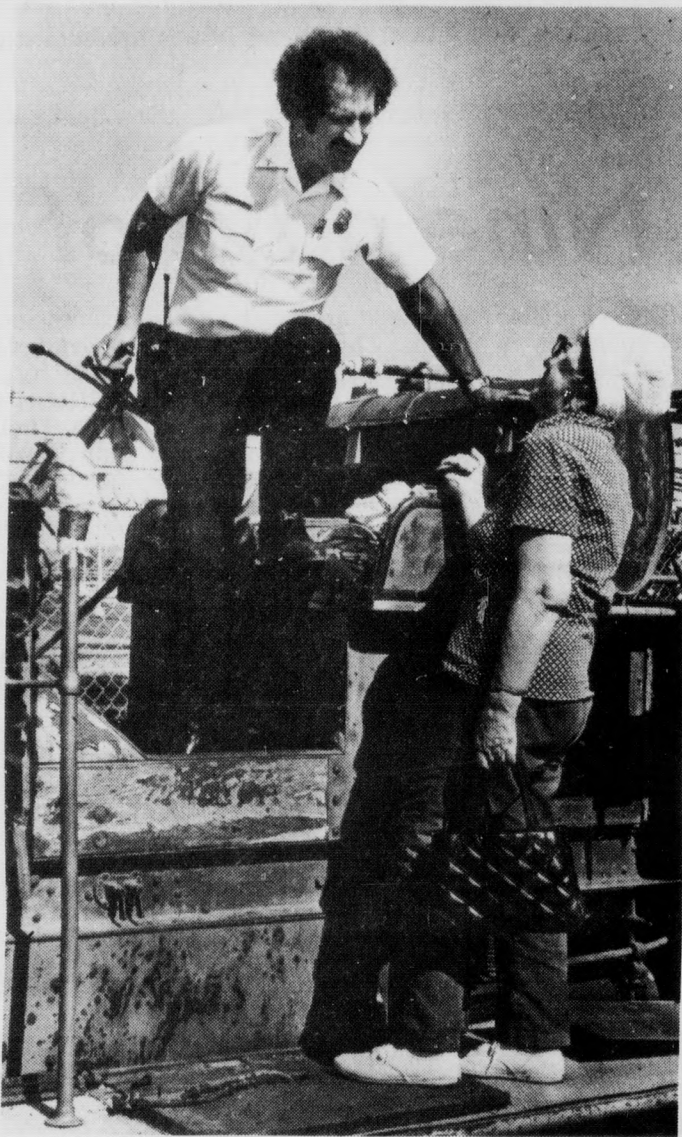

The truck is slated to be the first item housed in a new historical museum at the old Duarte Garage, North Livermore and Pine streets.

A kick-off fund raiser to establish the museum will be held there Friday and Sunday when the Heritage Guild holds a huge garage sale.

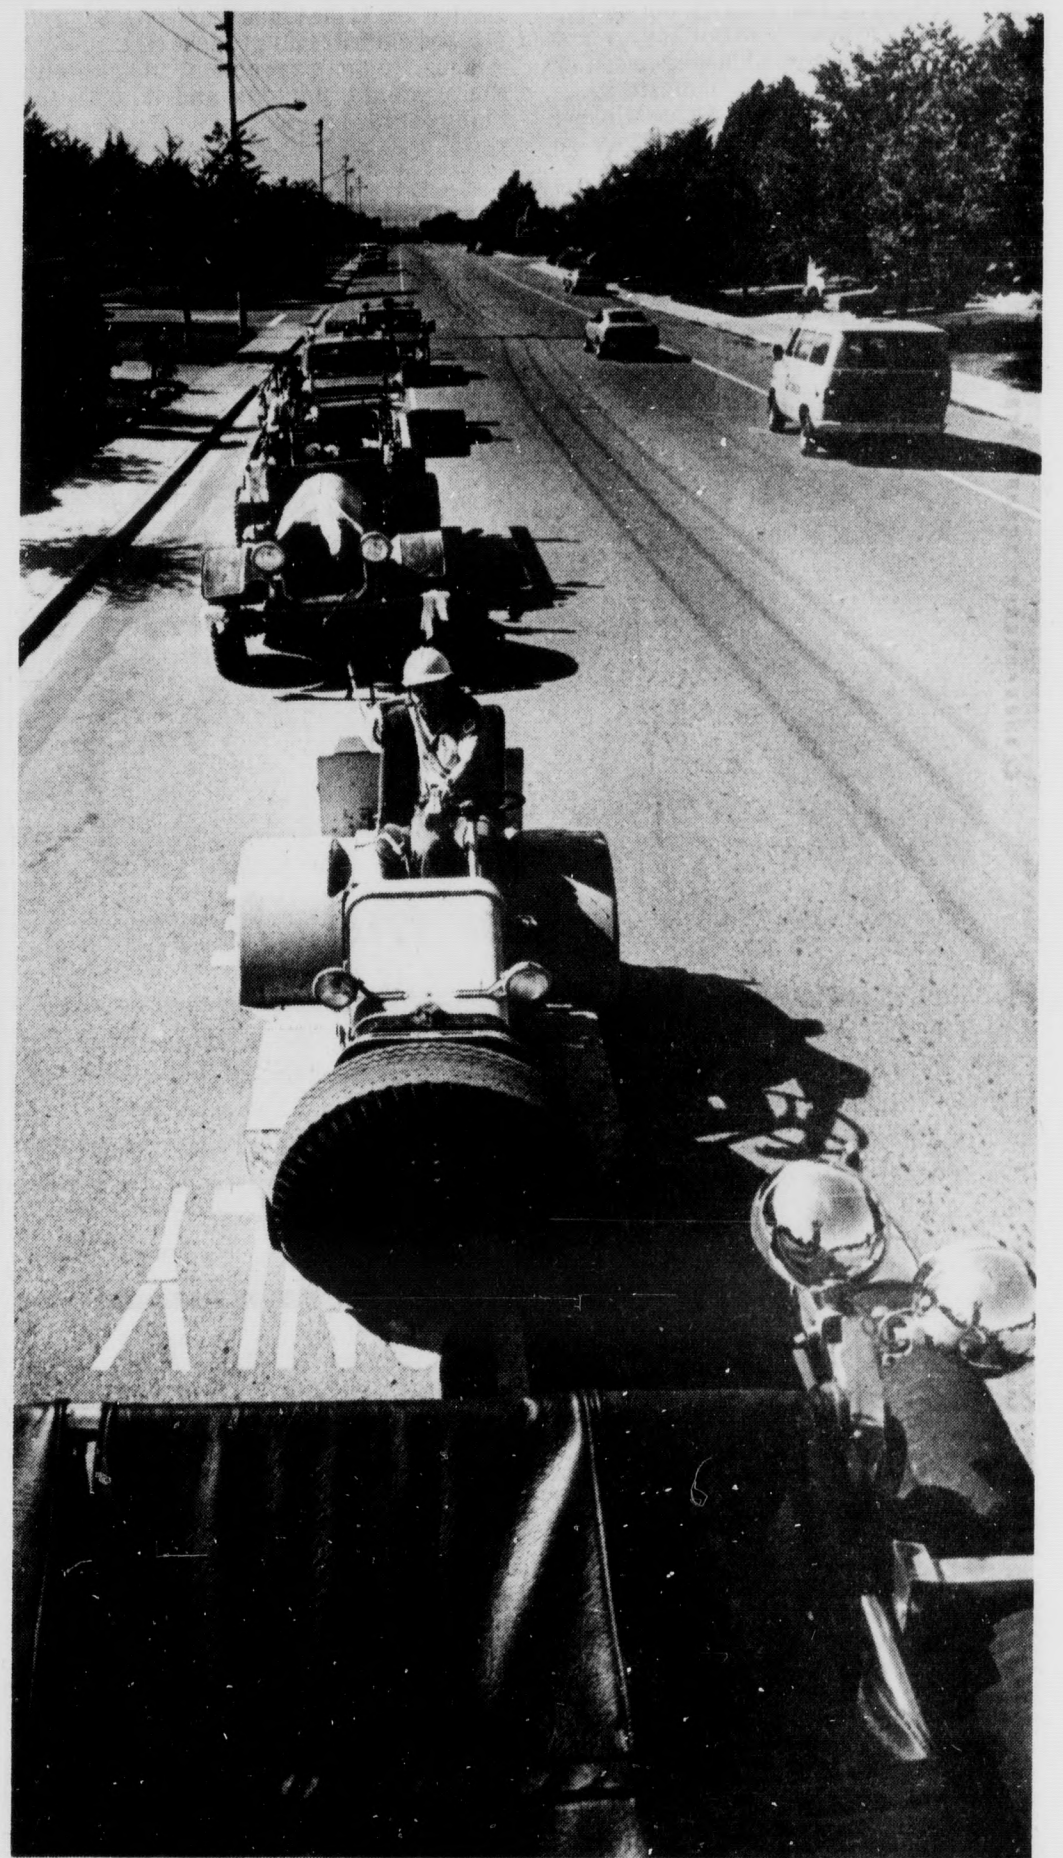

Donations of items — from toys, tools and appliances to pots, pans and baked goods — are needed. Call Leslie Jensen, 443-0406, or Virginia Bing, 443-5868.

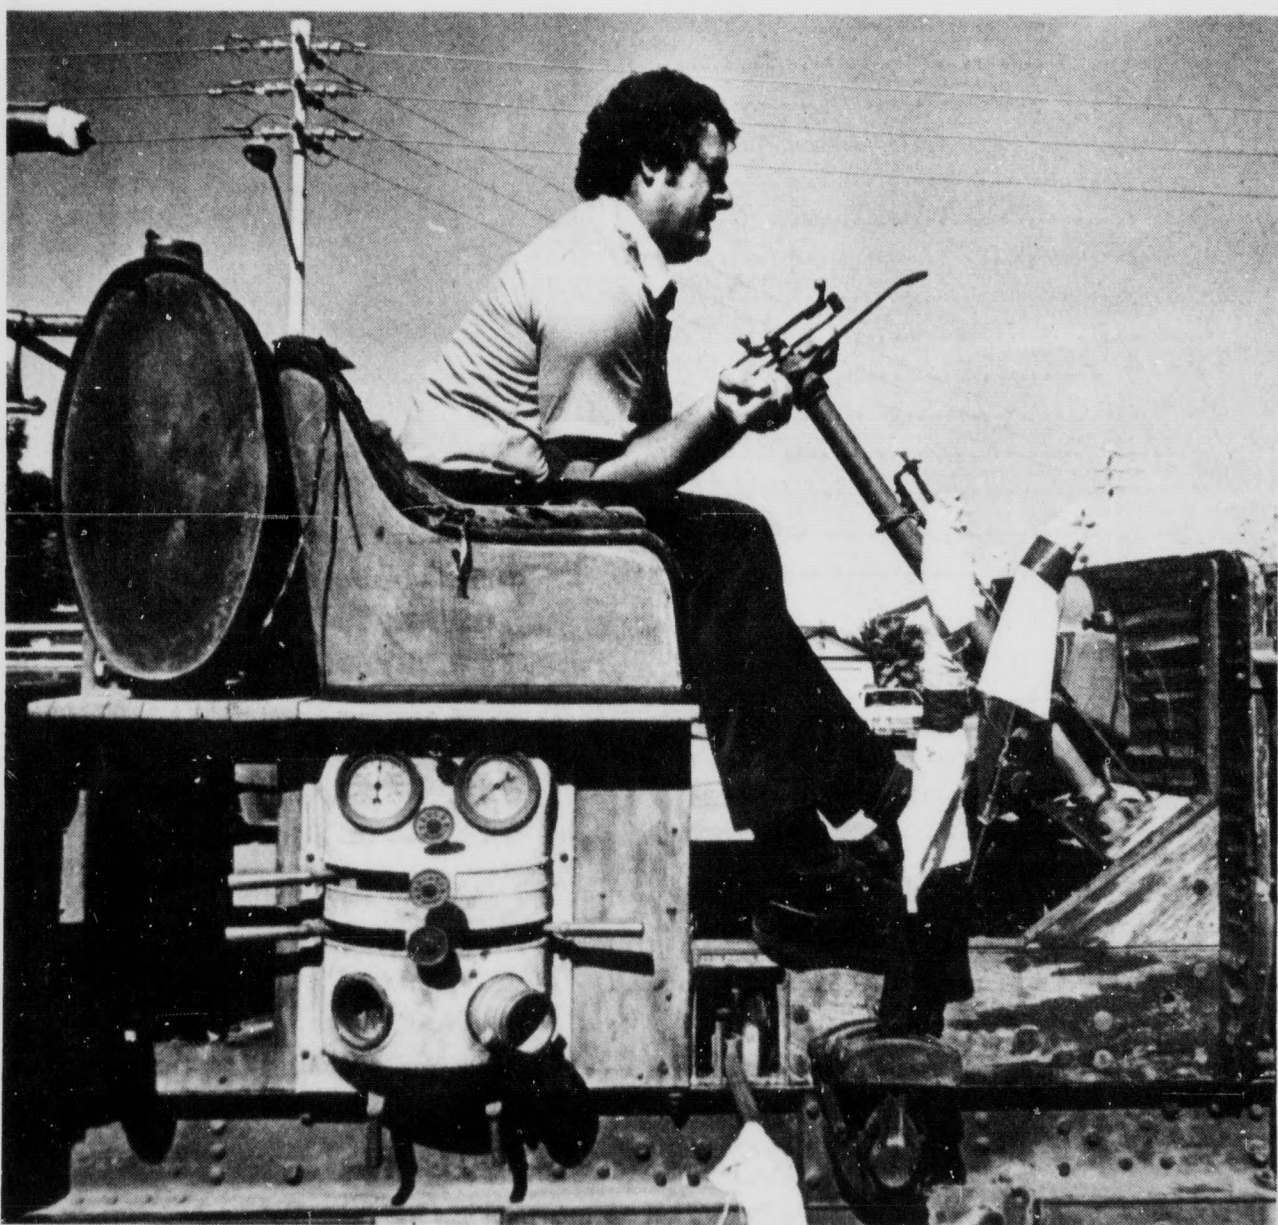

The firemen came to rescue the lonely truck.

Fireman Jim Wright relives the splendor of the pumper for Janet Newton.

They towed the truck down Pine Street.

Restoration Committee Chairman Jim Byron steers the old clunker.

In its new home at the Duarte Garage, the truck awaits restoration.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
There are some sudden and unusual career choices available today. Don't mull over them too long or you'll lose faith and lose out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Stick to the fun things that will pop up for you today. It's no time to get involved in high-risk ventures.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
An unexpected opportunity to perform an exceptional service will come to you today. Jump at the chance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Peculiar feelings could lead you to overindulge in the good things of life. You may do it, knowing you'll have to pay the piper.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You'll start the day with a lot of enterprise in acquiring possessions. Toward evening, you could celebrate a bit too much.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your alert mind will lead you to delve into the unusual today or visit peculiar places. It'll be fun for a change.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You could be unexpectedly extravagant today and enjoy every minute of it. Some guilty thoughts may later depress you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Today you'll be original and creative. You could skillfully assert yourself to achieve whatever you desire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Act upon unusual feelings or insights you have today without trepidation. Investigate the philosophy, rather than the phenomenon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You'll be around extraordinary people today. They could bring you unexpected benefits. Later you might find yourself a little envious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Keep gains or promotion that occurs today to yourself. Friends you tell could complicate things for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
An enthusiasm for pushing progressive ideas could backfire today. Guard against letting zeal become foolishness.

Jim: "Bridge analysis by British internationalist Boris Schapiro is a collection of hands from actual play. He starts with a chapter on bridge humor."

Oswald: "The humor in this hand was not appreciated by East and West. South really should have opened one club. With five very good clubs and five very bad spades you break the rule of bidding the higher-ranking, five-card suit first. Anyway, he opened one spade, North raised to two spades and South jumped to six."

Jim: "West opened the king of hearts and, instead of showing any signs of distress, South took his singleton ace, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a low spade toward dummy. West hopped up with his ace, dropping his partner's jack. Then he tried to cash the queen of hearts. South ruffed, dropped East's queen of spades and brought home his ridiculous slam."

Oswald: "The humor here is very British. At first glance West looks like an idiot. Actually, the fault lay with East. He dropped his deuce of diamonds on that first diamond lead! It was an expert, or supposed expert, game. Had East played the three spot, West would have read him for two diamonds and seen what South was up to."

Ask the Jacobys

An Iowa reader wants to know if dummy can remind declarer that he held honors. The answer is that dummy certainly may do that. Also honors can be declared any time before the rubber is over. Although, if declared late the opponents may object.

On Sports

As any veteran of a two-year institution of higher learning must be aware, you're liable to find anything at a junior college.

The other day, while strolling across Chabot College's Hayward campus, a gold and black bumper sticker leaped into my vision: "Granada wrestlers make better lovers."

A commonplace sight in Livermore, but in Hayward the sentiments, removed from their source, seemed somewhat silly. Oh, not that they are without basis.

In her new book, "The Sensuous Sit-out," New York's fabled ex-madam, Xaviera Hollander, extolls the virtues, unless that's a poor choice of words, of the fireman's carry.

And who can forget the classic 1938 film, "Down for the Count," and the tender scene in which Bette Davis looks longingly at Paul Muni and screams "Cross - face! Cross - face!"

What's this all for? Why, it's all to prove a point — that the tail ends of hot rods and station wagons alike have become entrenched as one of the California sports fan's major sounding boards.

And it's only fitting. Who can forget that California is the state wherein a higher ticket price at the ballpark will get you a better parking space — at Dodger Stadium.

And the place where tunnels are opened and free-ways re-routed on the day of a college football game — in Berkeley.

So, why shouldn't the fans shout from their bumpers as well as from the grandstand. But, there's only one problem. We lack imagination.

High school boosters drag out the tired old clichés. Take "Support Your Local Grizzly" — please! But the real culprits are the pros teams. They churn out some of the most redundant, boring tailgate PR since "Nixon's the One." And these guys have full-time publicity flacks.

Just about every car in the East Bay sports an Oakland Raider sticker. But that's all they are. No clever urgings or encouragement to the self-proclaimed "Good Guys."

Just a pirate in a football helmet with swords emblazoned to give the vague impression of the once-feared "jolly roger" flag. Typical of the Raiders, whose colorful on-field image has been sullied by the grayest, and perhaps meekest, front office staff excluding their room mates, the Charlie O. cowed Oakland A's.

But the cross-bay rival San Francisco Forty-Niners have failed in attempts to out-color the Raiders. One gets the gut feeling that "Big and Bold, 49er Gold," "49er Faithful," or "New Coach, New Approach" will never win Pulitzer Prizes.

The Warriors, with an upper-crust modus operandi that makes a blatant play for the well-to-do (the club serves Italian vegetable soups replete with Parmesan cheese to the media in lieu of the standard Kentucky Fried Chicken), followed up a prurient 1974-5 advertising campaign with a tasteful one-word bumper-strip in '76.

On its way to the National Basketball Association championship two years ago, Warrior billboards screamed "We know 12 guys who can go all night in their shorts." Yes, well, ah-hem, how dull.

Last season they came back with, simply: "Encore."

Oakland Coliseum fans, programmed by Lloyd Fox at the organ — dum, dum, dum, da, da, dum, dum, dum — and Charlie O's ubiquitous "million-dollar" scoreboard, seem content with short, obnoxious bumper adornments.

The A's have had a long line of forgettables: "See the A's swing and run in '71," "Once More in '74," and "Keep it Alive in '75" come readily, and painfully, to mind.

During the ill-fated lame duck season of the California Golden Turnips, or "Seals" if you must, A Times reporter's Pinto sprouted the puzzling message, "Maruuuk! Maruuuuuuk!"

For the uninitiated, the soon-to-be Cleveland Barons sported a dumpy little center with a droopy mustache named Dennis Maruk. In all fairness, Maruk was one of the few players the Seals had.

Nonetheless, back east they all but canonize a star, rather than repeat his name mindlessly with a plethora of unneeded vowels.

When Phil Esposito shattered the National Hockey League single season record for most goals, Bostonians forgot their predominantly Catholic upbringing and glued a message to their rides that waxed a trifle blasphemous.

"Jesus Saves," they admitted, "...but Esposito scores on the rebound."

Granada High garnered two first place votes but fell short of the number one spot, finishing fourth in the East Bay Prep Football Poll released yesterday.

The Mats, rated sixth last week, defeated Dublin 21-7 to improve their season record to 5-1, while the Gaels dipped from 10th to 14th after the loss dropped their mark to 4-2.

Livermore, 4-2, dropped to honorable mention after a tough 34-23 loss to San Ramon. The Wolves, 4-2, improved their position from 12th to 10th. Monte Vista, 4-1-1 after a lackluster 14-6 win over California, remained an honorable mention.

It was a week of reshuffling in the poll after the previously top three rated teams fell to defeat. Alhambra was shocked by Liberty, 14-10, dropping the Bulldogs into the second spot while College Park took over number one after smashing former number two team Clayton Valley, 30-12. Undefeated Hayward moved from fifth to third, five points ahead of the Matadors.

Currently immersed in an absurd six-way tie for first place, the East Bay Athletic League resumes action Friday and Saturday. After the weekend contests, the current jam between Granada, Dublin, Livermore, San Ramon, Foothill and Monte Vista will most likely be loosened. All teams "sport" 2-1 records.

Granada tangles with Monte Vista Saturday on the Mats' field. The 'Stangs carry the EBAL's number one defense into the contest, with an average of 199 yards yielded per game. Also number one against the pass, the Mustangs are only fifth against the rush. If Granada's Vance Rushing can continue to have 100 yard the EBAL's leading rusher Vance Rushing can continue to run with the consistency he has displayed in his first three contests (447 yards on 56 carries; 8.0 yards per carry), MV will be hard put to top the Mats.

On the offensive side, the Mustangs have been mediocre at best. Wide receiver Dave Cowan, with 14 catches for 192 yards, is their biggest threat. Granada's defense is third against the rush, seventh against the pass and fourth overall in the league. The Mats biggest challenge may be in containing Cowan from having another big game.

Livermore and Amador will renew their age-old rivalry Friday night in Livermore. The Cowboys face a must-win situation after their disappointing loss to San Ramon, while the Dons are just trying to save face after a disastrous three-game losing streak.

While penalties and long bombs hurt the 'Pokes in their only previous loss to Manteca, the Cowboys did enjoy an excellent offensive night. Leading the EBAL in team offense with an average of 343.3 yards a game, Livermore's Rick Gildea is second among passers in total yardage with 343 yards on 250 of 43 completions. The 'Pokes boast two runners in the top 10 rushing stats, thanks to Les Jacobs' 132 yards on 12 carries against the Wolves. Pat Powles is fourth with 308 yards on 50 carries, while Jacobs totals 154 yards on 17 carries.

The Dons bright spots in an uneventful season include reinstated receiver Mike Goodison, who is fourth in the league with 154 yards on seven catches. Quarterback Pat Inglesby has passed for 188 yards, while tailback Rob Flores is third in among EBAL rushers with 405 yards on 59 carries.

Upstart Foothill faces Dublin at Patterson Field in Pleasanton. Coach John Lupoi and his Falcons are flying high after their wins over San Ramon and Amador. Running back Brad Cotton has 192 yards on 33 carries for the Falcons, while receiver Jay Johnstone has caught 10 of quarterback Kevin Henderson's aeriels for 108 yards. The Gaels will have to counter with the EBAL's second-rated defense, vastly improved after being shellacked in pre-season games. Dublin's Jim Boulware lost his league-leading rushing edge over Vance Rushing in Friday's game when he gained only 78 yards on 21 carries. The Foothill defense hot after its shutout of Amador, is number four in the league against the rush.

Friday's final game will pit winless California vs. San Ramon in Danville. The Grizzlies put together their best defensive effort of the season against Monte Vista and even led at half-time, 6-0, before losing 14-6.

Trudeau brothers pace Vikings

The Livermore Vikings brother - tandem passing attack of Jack Trudeau and Kevin Trudeau gave the local Pop Warner football team a 12-0 win over the Mountain View Marauders in Menlo Park over the weekend.

In the third quarter, Livermore broke up the double shutout when Kevin fired a 24-yard scoring strike to Ted Whittmayer. In the following period, Jack hits Mark Sanches from 12 yards out to insure the win.

The Vikes racked a up 248 yards total offense as Mark Sanches rushed for 79 and Jack Trudeau 55 while the Trudeau brothers combined for 73 yards through the air. Cliff Pope caught two key passes to set up the scores.

Jack Trudeau also led the defense with 10 unassisted tackles while Bob Peterson and Cliff Pope also did well. The undefeated Vikings next test comes Saturday night in Vacaville against the Bulldogs.

The Dublin Squires battled to a 6-6 tie with the Napa Chargers in Dublin Sunday as Chris Damoulos took a 10-yard halfback pass from Chris Allen for the hosts only TD.

After the Chargers scored, Chris Lusvardi ran the kick-off back 72 yards to the Napa one-foot line, but time quickly ran out in the half.

The Squires piled up 300 yards and had 13 first downs as opposed to seven for Napa. Craig Lapsley and Dave Campagna combined for 128 yards passing to receivers Doug McNeil, Dave Weldon and Gary Leatherman.

Defenders Jeff Holder, Tony Freitas, Jeff Nichols and Brett Howell did the job defensively.

Meanwhile, the Dublin Knights, fell to the Walnut Creek Marauders, 25-0.

Quarterback Bill Hayes moved the offense well thanks to fine running by Cam Whitty, Greg McBride and Gary Anderson while Pete Laurence, Ron Holgreen, Mark Dwyer, Whitty, Larry Abreu and Rick Brower.

A 35-yard pass in the final 56 seconds by the Walnut Creek Raiders handed the Dublin Lancers a 6-0 loss despite a Dublin total of 207 rushing.

Chris Elbert, Todd Fraser and Roger Riggs moved the ball well while Mark Castillo, Rob Gray, Dennis Curtin, John Petlansky and Jeff Tucker and Pat Cerruti did well on defense.

Raiders find Denver a cold place

John Madden was particularly satisfied.

"I've never been unhappy with a win," the Oakland Raider coach commented after his team's narrow 17-10 victory over the Denver Broncos in Mile High Stadium Sunday afternoon.

But there was more involved.

"We've played the whole division once already," Madden noted, "and now we have a few at home."

Indeed the Raiders do.

Sunday's win, lifting Oakland to 5-1 in the AFC-West standings, completed a five-game road trip and left the Raiders in an enviable position to win their sixth straight conference championship.

Of Oakland's remaining eight regular season games, only two — at Chicago Nov. 7 and at Philadelphia Nov. 21 — are on the road.

Madden had opened his post game interview session by conceding, "Well, we knew they (the Broncos) had improved on defense. Early in the first half, we were having trouble putting anything together, especially on third down. But then in the second half, we moved pretty well."

Statistics back Madden's claim. Denver outgained Oakland, 182 to 113 total yards, in the first half and almost shut the Raiders out before Fred Steinfort kicked a 34-yard field goal with no time to play in the half.

Wide receiver Cliff Branch, whose great catch of a Ken Stabler pass completed a game tying 46-yard touchdown in the third period, said the Broncos "were playing tight" in the first half, dropping linebackers off and using zone defenses.

"They had excellent coverage in the first half. We made some adjustments at half, started throwing to Casper (tight end Dave) underneath. That opens it up deep."

"We knew as long as kept them inside," things would be OK, Madden said. "Of course, maybe in doing so we let them have too much."

'Pup' all over Long Beach State

SAN JOSE — The Long Beach State football team visited Spartan Stadium Saturday night with ideas of an autumn vacation. Instead, it had sand kicked in its face by "the pup."

"The pup," in this case was Rayford Roberson, former Dublin High School standout, who terrorized Long Beach runners and quarterbacks throughout the 34-7 San Jose slaughter.

Roberson, tagged with the nickname by team mates because of his sophomore status, had a game-leading nine tackles, dropped the quarterback twice and generally played havoc in the 49er backfield.

And, as fans filed through the exits with 45 seconds to play, Roberson grabbed an interception on the Long Beach one yard line and plunged into the end zone. So excited with his maneuver, Roberson hoisted the ball above his head and paraded down the field.

Because of his efforts, Roberson was awarded the game ball. Good thing. It would have taken the National Guard to pry the spidery linebacker from his oblong treasure.

"We finally got it together," Roberson said of the Spartan defense which allowed 120 yards on the ground and 75 through the air.

Roberson, whose interception was the fifth of the game for SJSU, said, "We played with intensity and poise. This was by far our best game since I've been here."

Although admitting he made several mental mistakes, Roberson said it was his best performance in his one and one-half year collegiate career.

Roberson's play overshadowed — or at least created a partial eclipse — halfback Rick Kane's running.

Kane, apparently fully recovered from a recurring leg injury, darted 105 yards in 24 carries.

He scored the game's first touchdown on a five-yard sprint and added another TD on a 19-yard screen pass.

Kane did, however, fall 12 yards shy of breaking Johnny Johnson's SJ career rushing mark of 1700 yards.

"I knew I had 86 at half-time," Kane said walking to the locker room after a radio interview. "But I wasn't aware of how close I was at the end of the game."

Kane excused himself, laughing, "Tonight was (cheerleader) Crazy George's night. Next week will be mine."

He added, "With Fresno State coming in, I'll go over the record by 200 yards."

Kane said he would have gone over the prestigious yardage mark but, "penalties cost me 50 yards."

The Spartans were flagged 10 times but still managed 331 yards total offense. Penalties, a lethal weapon this year at SJ, don't fret Roberson.

"We did have a lot of penalties against Long Beach," he said. "But, remember, they weren't big ones."

The game was going so well for SJSU even quarterback Steve DeBerg got into the scoring act on what later was revealed as a fluke play.

DeBerg faked beautifully to Kane up the middle and stroled around left end for an easy score.

Explained the well-conceived run, DeBerg said, "I missed the hand-off."

The game, played under ideal conditions, culminated in appropriate fashion.

One Long Beach fan belated to a San Jose rooster, "How come San Jose doesn't have a band." To which the Spartan supporter replied, "How come Long Beach doesn't have a football team?"

49ers pay price in Saints win

"This puts a damper on everything we've done," Monte Clark, head man of the San Francisco 49ers, summed up the feelings of his team's loss of wide receiver Willie McGee Sunday via a broken left leg.

The fleet McGee had caught four touchdowns passes this season and along with Gene Washington afforded quarterback Jim Plunkett a couple of deep threats.

McGee was injured on the opening play of the fourth period against New Orleans as he attempted to latch on to a Marty Domres aerial. San Francisco remained in first place in the NFC West with a 33-3 triumph over Hank Stram's Saints.

Clark said, "We expect our rookies to step in at wide receiver. They'll just have to do the job for us." Then too, Clark will be on the lookout for a free agent wide receiver.

The rookies Monte referred to are Kenny Harrison of Southern Methodist and Steve Rivera, the ex-Cal Golden Bear, who went against old teammate Chuck Muncie Sunday for the first time in the pro ranks. Chuck was New Orleans' leading ground gainer with 50 yards in 10 carries.

Gene Washington moved into the lead as the 49ers' all-time career reception leader by grabbing two of Plunkett's tosses for 67 yards. He went 55 yards with one of them for a TD in the first period. Washington has 5,817 yards compared to Billy Wilson's 5,802.

In the meantime the quartet is content to go about their job of making life miserable for the opposing quarterback.

MEET YOUR 7a.m. NEWS TEAM. THEY DELIVER.

You've seen the media promote its own. Network anchormen. Star reporters. Top-notch editors. They always get the bouquets. That's why we want to talk about the people who bring you the news. Literally. The newspaper carriers. On the occasion of National Newspaper Carrier Day let us introduce you to some of the outstanding carriers we work with. They're all independent businessmen. That's why we speak of them as business associates. They're truly in business for themselves. And these young people will amaze you with their energy and accomplishments. Be it on the route. At school. Or in the community. We only regret we don't have the space to honor the several thousand news carriers we depend on in Contra Costa County. But if you want to meet some interesting people, read on. Or better yet, stand out in front of your home someday and meet your local carrier. We think you'll enjoy getting to know the people who bring you the news.

Danny Aguiar
The West County Times

The day begins at 5:15 a.m. for Danny Aguiar. That's when he gets up for his three routes (580 papers, in all) that takes him four miles on foot through Pinole. So far, $2,000 of his route earnings have made it to his bank account. Danny was the paper's Newspaper Carrier of the Year. He also won the company's Achievement Service Award. He's an "A" student in his junior year at Pinole Valley High with his sights set on attending medical school at U.C. Davis. For fun he likes to golf, swim and work on his stamp collection.

Brian Frew
The Valley Pioneer

The Alamo residents on Brian Frew's route have never had occasion to complain. Because Brian's had the paper on their porch without fail for the last year. This remarkable adult 13-year-old also works as an aide at summer school and has donated his time to helping elderly patients at a convalescent hospital. Brian is an avid reader who tutors seventh graders at Los Cerros Jr. High. And last year he entered advanced math competition. His hobbies are reading and building models.

Chuck Davidson
The Valley/Pleasanton Times

Twelve California newspaper carriers out of 55,000 were selected for the Presidential Medallion Trophy for Community Service. One of these was awarded to Valley/Pleasanton Times carrier Chuck Davidson, 15, who has had a route for 2½ years. The California High School sophomore was recommended by two of his scout leaders and a school counselor. Like most people who do good things, Chuck is very modest. His favorite activities are hiking, camping and bowling (he's in two area leagues).

Chris Pacheco
The Concord Transcript

Chris Pacheco has got to be a hero to his six younger brothers and sisters. He's saving his route money to take the entire family on vacation to Disneyland. He recently won the California Newspaper Youth Foundation "Thrifty Award" which is based upon the way in which carriers budget and spend their earnings. Chris, a freshman at Mount Diablo High School, enjoys all sports but his favorite is basketball.

David Annala
The Midweek Suns

For relaxation David Annala likes to listen to his stereo. The one paid for with his paper route earnings. He's delivered The Midweek Suns and the Moraga Suns for the past 5½ years and is one of their outstanding carriers. In all he has 105 customers. David attends Campolindo High School, has an A average, and is college bound. His favorite pastime is water polo.

Cindy Hjersman
Contra Costa Times

For the last 1½ years Cindy Hjersman has delivered the Contra Costa Times on a hilly 2½ mile route in Lafayette. And she's never gotten a complaint. What's more, she's had a lot of praise from her customers. It's won her the Carrier of the Week Award. It seems whatever she does, she does well. Honor Student. College Scholarship winner. And last year she traveled to Nicaragua as a volunteer to help vaccinate the villagers. And after the Guatemala earthquake she organized a fund raising fast for the victims. Somehow, she still finds time for backpacking, modern dance, reading, and her special love, music.
